With the shift to urban living and rising incomes, Indians are paying closer attention to their home interiors. The days of basic lime-washed walls and minimal furnishings are gone. Now, people have distinct preferences for wall colours, curtains, and furniture. This has given rise to the creative and artistic field of interior design, offering a world of possibilities.

Interior design is the creative process of enhancing unfinished spaces. This course helps students blend their creativity with technical knowledge to produce measurable results. With the booming real estate industry, it not only adds aesthetic value to society but also offers profitable opportunities.
